

RAISING EXPECTATIONS INC. TOURS LINCOLN THEATRE'S "BLACK BROADWAY"

January 30, 2007 -- Upon entering the historic theatre lobby, a group of energetic youngsters ages 7-12 along with their group organizers were amazed by the gold garnishing, chandelier lighting, and original architecture restored in Lincoln Theatre. Restored to its original 1920s splendor through collaborative efforts of public and private organizations and individuals, the Lincoln Theatre, known as "Black Broadway," is currently cared for and maintained by the U Street Theatre Foundation, a 501 (c) 3 organization.
